Access to DOVA Classrooms in the Logan Center

Our classrooms (the painting, drawing, sculpture, and 101 rooms) will be unlocked from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. At all other times, the doors will be locked. This access policy does not necessarily apply to rooms not controlled by DOVA, such as the seminar rooms.

For the first three weeks of the quarter:

When the doors lock at 6 p.m. (and when they are locked on weekends), anyone with a UChicago ID card can enter the classrooms until midnight. In other words, students will be able to access the classrooms 8:00 a.m. to midnight, seven days a week.

Beginning in the fourth week of the quarter:

Once the add/drop period ends, we will limit after hours access to students enrolled in our classes. In other words, starting in week four, only the students taking classes in the sculpture studio (for instance) will have access to it on weekends and after the doors lock at 6 p.m. on weekdays.

Regardless of what week it is, DOVA faculty, students (MFAs and majors), and staff can enter all classrooms 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.
