Fire Piston

A small piece of flash cotton is placed at the bottom of a narrow, clear cylinder. When a piston is used to rapidly compress the air inside, the flash cotton ignites.