Crush Soda Can With Atmospheric Pressure

A soda can containing about 20 ml of water is placed on a pre-heated hot plate. Once the water has begun to boil it is flipped over into an ice water bath. The rapid decrease in pressure inside the can allows it be crushed by atmospheric pressure.