Imploding Oil Drum

The air inside a 55 gallon steel oil drum is pumped out with a vacuum pump. When the pressure inside the drum is sufficiently reduced atmospheric pressure will cause the drum to violently collapse.