Singing Rod

An aluminum rod is driven into audible resonance with a single stroke of the fingers. Holding the rod at different fractions of its length allows harmonic frequencies to be heard. Rosin is used to increase friction between the rod and fingers.